About Amity Health

We are a not-for-profit organisation providing a range of funded health programs and allied health services to adults, children and families living in the Great Southern, Wheatbelt and South Coastal Goldfields regions.

We respectfully acknowledge the traditional custodians and first people of this land and pay our respects to Elders past, present and future. We acknowledge the contributions of Aboriginal Australians and Non Aboriginal Australians who work to provide people with the best possible access to health services in this country we all live in and share together.

How to join the program

If you'd like to join the program, our team can talk to you and help you to take a health check.

If your GP has written a care plan for you, we can then book the appointments you need.

Our team are trained in culturally appropriate chronic disease care and will encourage and support you to take steps to work on your health related challenges and concerns.

Our aim is to increase your access to primary health care and to help you to feel more confident about your health.

Funded by the WA Primary Health Alliance and delivered in partnership with local allied health providers with the aim of improving the health of vulnerable and disadvantaged people in country WA.
